ALDERMAN BOLTS ON HYDRO BILL

SPLIT IN COMMITTEE WHICH HAD AGREED TO PAY FOR LIGHTS.

SHOULD HYDRO ELECTRIC OR COLORADO SPRINGS ELECTRIC COMPANY PAY REBATE TO THE CITY?

The inability of the council to hold together on an agreement made several months ago prevented the payment of the Hydro-Electric company's bills for lighting for July, each of which amounts to $[illegible], at a secret session of the city council held last evening. Alderman E. R. Hosman, who was a member of the committee of five which has been paying the Hydro's bills, is said to have intimated that he would no longer vote for the payment of the bills.

Last evening's session was held behind closed doors in the mayor's office but details of the stormy argument held therein leaked out after the meeting.

It appears that at a recent meeting of some of the aldermen, held several months ago, Aldermen Tucker, McCaffery, Hosman, Hill and Verner agreed to vote for the payment of the Hydro bills as they were presented each month. This gave a majority of the eight aldermen in favor of the bills, and assured their payment. The agreement has been carried out for months, the five aldermen named voting for the payment of the bills as they came up. In each instance, Aldermen Albin and Holden voted against the payment of the Hydro bills. Alderman Seldomridge has been absent and has not had an opportunity to show which side of the fence he is on. City Attorney Robinson has advised against the payment of the bills in each instance.

But when the aldermen gathered in the mayor's office yesterday to consider the bills, a new phase of the situation appeared. Alderman Hosman said that he would no longer stick by the agreement; that the report of the college professors had given new light on the situation, and that he would not vote in favor of the payment of another Hydro bill until that company furnished 2,000-candlepower lights, as it agrees to do in the Jackson franchise.

Mr. Hosman's declaration caused consternation among the other members. Aldermen Albin and Holden were called upon, but they both said that they would continue to vote against the payment of the bills. Alderman Seldomridge was not at the meeting. As it takes the votes of five aldermen to pay bills, it was decided not to bring the bills up in open council.

City Attorney Robinson claims that the Hydro company owes the city $15,157.28 as a rebate for the shortage which has existed in the power of the arc lights. He has presented a claim to the Hydro company for this amount.

At the secret session last night it was suggested by one of the aldermen that the city ask the Hydro company to furnish lights free of charge until this amount is made up. This plan was not looked on with favor, and the city will probably persist in its demand that the Hydro company refund the $15,157.28. It is also planned that the city will demand that the Hydro company place 2,000-candlepower lights on the streets of the city in place of those now installed, which range from 150 to 480-candlepower strength.

According to a city official who has been active in Hydro matters, the city has but a small chance of recovering the $15,157.28 from the Hydro company. The situation is briefly stated thus:

The city will demand the rebate from the Hydro company. The company will say that it is not responsible for the shortage, as the lights have been furnished by the Colorado Springs Electric company, and that the city must look to the latter company for the rebate. The Colorado Springs company will tell the city that it has not agreed to furnish the city with 2,000-candlepower lights, that it has not received any money from the city for the lights, and that, therefore, the city cannot ask it (the Colorado Springs company) for a rebate.

"And what are we going to do about it?" asks the official. "If the Hydro company had openly transferred the lighting contract to the Colorado Springs Electric company, and the council had agreed to the transfer of the contract, then we could hold the Colorado Springs company for the rebate. But as the matter stands, I don't see how we can hold either company responsible for the shortage."

The city and the Hydro company yesterday filed an agreed statement of facts in the district court. On this statement of facts the court will interpret section 5 of the Jackson franchise.

The city contends in this statement that it has the right to purchase from the Hydro company electric power for the operation of a municipal lighting plant at a rate equal to that furnished by the Hydro company to its most favored customer. The Hydro's most favored customer is the Colorado Springs Electric company, which buys current at [illegible] cents per kilowatt hour.

The Hydro company denies this right to the city. The operation of a municipal plant by the city is not a municipal purpose within the meaning of section 5 of the Jackson franchise, because the city would use this plant to sell power to citizens, and not for its own use. It also claims that it cannot be compelled to sell power to the city at this rate unless the city agrees to buy as much current as the Colorado Springs company purchases.

PASS THREE IMPORTANT MEASURES

PRINTERS PLACE UNION'S FUNDS IN HANDS OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

PRESIDENT LYNCH'S DECISION ON PRIORITY LAW UPHELD BY I. T. U.—OATH FOR MEMBERS CHANGED.

Three matters of great importance to the printers were discussed and decided upon by the delegates at the convention of the International Typographical union yesterday morning. These affected the disbursement of funds for the eight-hour strike, the priority law and the oath of membership.

A heated discussion was precipitated over the resolution that "no subordinate union shall be permitted to increase its statutory strike benefits without application to the executive committee, unless such increase is provided out of the local union's funds." It was finally adopted in this form. This provision was made as a safeguard to the funds of the International Typographical union and to place the funds more directly under the executive committee.

Delegate E. F. Drackert of New York union No. 6 alleged that the resolution, which was originally introduced by Delegate J. B. Esty of Paterson, N. J., was aimed as a direct slap at New York union No. 6, which has raised the strike benefit.

Chairman W. T. Anderson, of the laws committee, said:

"It is to eliminate the dead timber, which is without principle, ambition or hope and looks upon the strike bonus, not as blood money, but as money which they are entitled to because if they don't get it they will go out and cut throats."

Secretary J. W. Bramwood denied that it was aimed at any one union.

"It is absolutely necessary legislation. There is no objections on the part of the executive council to a local union's increasing its benefits as much as it wishes as long as it does it from its own treasury, but it has no right to increase it from the International Typographical union funds without consent."

PRESIDENT'S SON ON SOUTH DAKOTA HUNT

DEADWOOD, S. D., Aug. 16.—Kermit Roosevelt, with his young friend, John Heard, arrived today for a visit with Captain Seth Bullock, United States marshal.

They will take an overland trip by way of Belle Fourche to President Roosevelt's old ranch near Medora, on the Little Missouri river. The party consists of Captain Bullock, his son Stanley, Paul Martin, son of Congressman Martin, Kermit Roosevelt and John Heard. They will travel with a complete camping outfit and will be gone about ten days. The boys came direct from Oyster Bay. Kermit accompanied the captain on a hunting trip last year when they bagged both bear and wild cats.

CONVICTS CUT THROAT OF GUARD AND ESCAPE

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 16.—Feigning illness, three negro convicts, Alonzo Goodwin, Hammond Wilson and George Kenney, serving long terms on the chain gang near Ashley Junction, remained in the stockade today. They asked for water and then overpowered H. C. Stello, the white guard and cut his throat with a butcher knife. The two trusties at the stockade were locked in by the men, who donned civilian clothing and escaped into the nearby swamps. A sheriff's posse is searching the woods.

DID MAN FALL IN BOTTOMLESS PIT?

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE OF L. C. ALMOND ON TOP OF PIKE'S PEAK PUZZLES FRIENDS.

One of the strangest mysteries of years is baffling the local police force. A man stood on Pike's Peak on the porch of the summit house at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. A few minutes later he had disappeared and he has not been seen since.

The lost man is L. C. Almond, 24 years old, of 2868 Champa street, Denver. He and Carl Harbaugh, also of Denver, came to the Springs Monday and engaged rooms at 311 East Bijou street. At 10 o'clock Wednesday night they started to walk up the Peak, reaching the summit at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. Harbaugh entered the summit house to get a cup of coffee, leaving Almond standing on the porch. When he returned to the porch five minutes later Almond had disappeared.

Harbaugh has reported to the police that he fears that Almond has fallen into the chasm just east of the summit house, known as the Bottomless Pit. Police Captain [illegible] scoffs at this theory, but the police have been unable to find a trace of Almond.

Almond is a stationary engineer. He came to Colorado from Dallas, Tex., last March. He is more than six feet tall and weighs 200 pounds.

FIREMEN ELECT M'NEILL.

ROANOKE, Va., Aug. 16.—The National Fireman's convention today adjourned sine die after selecting Oklahoma City as the place for holding the next meeting and re-electing James McNeill of Fayette, N. C., president.

MASSACHUSETTS WOMAN SUCCEEDS MISS SMITH

DENVER, Aug. 16.—Miss Marian B. Rudgers, who has been assistant superintendent of the State Reformatory for Women at Bedford, Mass., was today appointed by the board of control to be superintendent of the State Industrial School for Girls at Morrison, to succeed Miss Smith, who recently resigned.

NAME CAMPBELL FOR GOVERNOR

TEXAS DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION, AFTER LONG DELIBERATION, CHOOSE HIM FOR LEADER.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 16.—Thomas M. Campbell, a native of Rusk, Tex., the birthplace of the late Governor Hogg, was this afternoon nominated for governor by the Democratic state convention. If elected he will be the second native governor of Texas. Mr. Campbell is a lawyer, but for several years was general manager of the International and Great Northern railway.

The first ballot, which started last night, was not completed until 11 o'clock today. Judge Brooks received the smallest number of votes and was dropped, Mr. Campbell, C. B. Colquitt and Judge C. K. Bell being the remaining candidates.

On the second ballot Campbell was nominated. When the roll call had been on for two hours and was about one-fourth completed, Mr. Colquitt made a speech withdrawing his name and declaring that Mr. Campbell should be nominated. A little later Judge Bell withdrew and asked that the nomination of Colonel Campbell be made unanimous. The convention did so, whereupon the band played "The Campbells Are Coming." Campbell appeared, escorted by Mr. Colquitt, who presented him, merely saying:

"The Campbells have come."

At tonight's session the state ticket was completed as follows:

Governor, T. M. Campbell; lieutenant governor, A. B. Davidson; attorney general, R. V. Davidson; controller, J. W. Stephens; treasurer, Samuel Sparks; superintendent of public instruction, R. B. Cousins; railroad commissioner, L. J. Storey; chief justice supreme court, R. R. Jayne; judge criminal court of appeals, J. W. Henderson; chairman of the state executive committee, G. A. Carden of Dallas.

R. B. BROWN IS ELECTED COMMANDER

VETERAN EDITOR OF ZANESVILLE COURIER NAMED CHIEF OF G. A. R. HOSTS.

BURTON OF MISSOURI AND CONEY OF KANSAS WITHDRAW. PICK CONVENTION CITY TODAY.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 16.—Officers were elected today at the annual meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic as follows:

Commander-in-Chief, R. B. Brown, Zanesville, O.; senior vice commander, William H. Armstrong, Indianapolis; junior vice commander, E. R. Fenton, Detroit; chaplain-in-chief, Archbishop John Ireland, St. Paul; surgeon general, W. H. Johnson, Lincoln, Neb.

All the other officers are staff appointments and will be announced later by the commander-in-chief. The strongest opponents of Mr. Brown for the honor of being commander-in-chief were C. C. Burton of Missouri and Captain P. H. Coney of Kansas. Both withdrew when it was seen that the election of Brown was a certainty.

Several candidates were nominated for senior and junior vice commanders, but later withdrew in favor of Armstrong and Fenton and both were chosen unanimously. Archbishop Ireland had no rival for the position of chaplain-in-chief. After the election the place for holding the next convention was taken up, but adjournment was taken before a vote was had.

It is expected that the debate on the Wirz monument proposition will come up tomorrow. Despite the fact that Commander-in-Chief Tanner strongly urged that a protest be made against the erection of the monument, there is a pronounced feeling that the matter is not one of which the Grand Army should take official notice.

The new commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., R. B. Brown, was born in 1845 and has always lived in Ohio. He enlisted in the 15th Ohio infantry at the age of 16 and served in the 14th army corps in the army of the Cumberland until he was mustered out in 1864. He then re-enlisted and served until the end of the war. He has long been active in the work of the Grand Army. Mr. Brown is now editor of the Zanesville Courier.

Mrs. Carrie Sparkling of St. Louis was tonight elected national president of the Women's Relief corps. Her principal rival was Miss Kate Jones of New York. Mrs. Sparkling has previously held a number of high offices in the organization.

VETERANS RE-ELECT GORMAN.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 16.—The Union Veterans' union has unanimously re-elected Richard L. Gorman commander in chief. Major General George Wentworth, of Haverhill, Mass., was named as first deputy commander in chief and General H. H. Carr, Wichita, Kas., second deputy commander in chief. Selection of the next place for meeting was left to the executive committee.

POSTMASTER AT PAONIA.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—John A. Bunker of Paonia, Colo., was appointed postmaster today.

ARKANSAS SENATOR SENT TO THE "PEN"

PERRYVILLE, Ark., Aug. 16.—State Senator F. O. Butte was convicted by a jury in the circuit court shortly after midnight on a charge of offering a bribe to another state senator. He was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $200.

E. H. REYNOLDS HAS BEEN FOUND

IS SAID TO BE IN DENVER BUT MAY NOT BE PROSECUTED BY TEXANS.

E. H. Reynolds, who has been missing since Tuesday afternoon, leaving behind him in this city a trail of debts, has been located in Denver, and the 42 girls and women whom he brought on an excursion from Texas are divided upon the question of prosecution.

Only civil action can be brought against Reynolds for the rent and tradesmen's bills owing in this city, but a separate criminal charge of securing money under false pretenses could be instituted by each member of the party from whom the Houston principal has collected money in advance.

According to a member of the excursion party, Reynolds has been located in Denver, and will be brought back to Colorado Springs, provided a warrant for his arrest is sworn out. This the Texans hesitate to do, and it is probable that Reynolds will escape punishment.

His sixty-year-old son Orlando, of whom the father is extremely fond, and who accompanied him on his hurried exit from Colorado Springs, proved the means of identification. Reynolds is said to be stopping at an exclusive private boarding house on Capitol hill in Denver, preliminary to his departure for the south.

It is now said that, in addition to securing the price of their board in advance, Reynolds borrowed considerable money from the various members of his party, so that the loss will aggregate more than was at first thought.

EARTHQUAKE SHAKES MENDOZA PROVINCE

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 17.—An earthquake shock was felt in the province of Mendoza at 9 o'clock last night. Telegraphic communication with Chile has been interrupted as a result.

While it is believed that no serious damage was done, a panic prevails among the population.

DESERT BUSINESS AND BUY RIFLES

CITIZENS OF TEXAS TOWN FEAR FURTHER TROUBLE WITH NEGRO TROOPS. APPEAL FOR AID.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 16.—Further trouble is feared here with the negro troops. A citizen's guard of 150 men is stationed along the road between this city and Fort Brown and if the negroes attempt to leave the garrison it is the avowed purpose of the citizens to shoot them down. Four hundred rifles were sold to citizens yesterday.

The report that the officers of the garrison are themselves afraid of the negro troops has determined the citizens to take no chances. Many people are leaving their homes on the side of the city near Fort Brown. Business is nearly suspended in the city.

No replies being received by the investigating committee to the request for protection and relief from the strain under which this city had been since the outrage committed by soldiers Monday night, the committee has sent an urgent message to President Roosevelt, United States Senators Culberson and Bailey and Governor Lanham dealing on the outrages saying after two days' diligent inquiries it has been found that no blame attaches to the citizens and asking that the negroes be replaced by white troops. The message states that threats have been made by the soldiers that they will burn the town and it is feared the five commissioned officers cannot control the men. The governor and senators are implored to do all they can to secure the removal of the negro troops.

It is said the government investigation will result in a court martial for one or more officers.

"UNCLE JOE" CONVENTION'S CHOICE AGAIN

MR. CANNON'S PRESIDENTIAL BOOM PREMATURELY TORN FROM ITS MOORINGS.

IF HE HAD TO WORK FOR A LIVING HE SAYS HE WOULD JOIN UNION. REPUBLICAN PROSPERITY.

DANVILLE, Ill., Aug. 16.—If "Uncle Joe" Cannon had to work for a living he says he would join a union. He said so today at the Republican convention of the Eighteenth district which nominated him for congress. This is the eighteenth time Mr. Cannon has been nominated, the seventeenth time the honor has been bestowed by acclamation. There was the greatest enthusiasm over the prospective candidacy of Mr. Cannon for president. Mr. Cannon had not intended to launch a boom for president at this convention, but the pressure of his supporters was so great as to sweep away his wishes in the matter.

Mr. Cannon's supporters in his own district will likely urge the state convention to make a similar indorsement. There seems to be little doubt that this will be done.

Speaker Joseph G. Cannon was given a splendid welcome upon the occasion of his appearance before the convention. In regard to union labor, Mr. Cannon spoke as follows:

"Education, invention, capital and labor have struck hands. The forces of nature are utilized in production for the benefit of both producer and consumer. This condition necessarily requires the combined activities of employer and employe. Naturally, differences arise between the two, as to what is a proper wage, or, in other words, as to a fair division of the profits of the business. Laborers found it necessary to co-operate with each other and act together in determining from time to time what was due them in the division of the profits.

According to the last census 30,000,000 people are employed in gainful occupations, and three million, according to the statement of Mr. Gompers, are organized in what is popularly known as 'unions.' I feel quite sure that such organizations of labor have, as a rule, been helpful, not only to the laborer, but to the employer as well, and to the whole city [illegible] of

LEAP FROM SPEEDING AUTO TO SAVE LIVES

DENVER, Aug. 16.—Leaping for their lives, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman T. Brown and Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Neres saved themselves from a horrible death yesterday afternoon at Nunn, Colo., 34 miles this side of Cheyenne, Wyo., when they were run down by a Union Pacific train going at the rate of 65 miles an hour. The $6,000 Thomas flyer belonging to Dr. Brown was reduced to a pile of scrap and every stitch of extra clothing carried by the party was destroyed together with $2,000 worth of jewelry and over $300 in money.

MRS. LESLIE CARTER-PAYNE BREAKS AWAY FROM BELASCO

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Leslie Carter-Payne today signed a five-year contract to appear under the exclusive management of Charles B. Dillingham. This is regarded as ending all business relations between the star and David Belasco, who had been her manager during her entire stage career.

DIVORCE STORIES WILL BE GUARDED

AGENTS WHO COMPILE STATISTICS OF MISMATED LIVES TO REVEAL NO FAMILY SKELETONS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—In an interview today regarding the interest in the dispatch of employes of twenty of the largest cities, to collect divorce statistics, William S. Roberts, acting director of the census bureau, pointed out that the 140 clerks already sent out are trusted employes, sworn to secrecy, and that "the public will never be wiser as to individual cases when we have finished."

"Our records," he said, "will not even contain the names of the divorced persons. It is block statistics that the government is after. We are simply sending a corps of women and men clerks and they are being installed in the court houses of twenty of the largest cities, where, under the direction of a man of the bureau, they will go through the divorce records for 20 years and take our cold facts, which will never have a personal significance."

PHILATELICS DECIDE TO MEET IN DENVER

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—The delegates to the American Philatelic association voted today to hold the annual convention at Denver.

DECLINE TO ARBITRATE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The National Association of Employing Lithographers declined today to grant a conference to the national officers of the Lithographers, Artists, Engravers and Designers League of America on the "open shop."

CONVENTION CARES ARE PUT ASIDE

HUNDREDS SPEND AFTERNOON AND EVENING AT UNION PRINTERS HOME.

BARBECUE, SPEECH-MAKING, MUSIC AND DANCING COMBINE TO MAKE AFFAIR BRILLIANT.

Nearly two thousand printers, delegates and visitors spent yesterday afternoon wandering over the beautiful Printers' home grounds, inspecting the buildings, partaking of a real Rocky Mountain barbecue, listening to speeches and dancing in the evening.

To many the home was a revelation. Hundreds had never before seen the Union Printers home. Many had not visited it for five or ten years. On all sides were heard expressions of surprise and wonder at the development and growth of the great institution.

Early in the afternoon the visitors began arriving, the convention adjourning at 2 o'clock for the purpose of giving the afternoon over to "Home day." On arrival at the grounds, visitors were given the freedom of the place and were shown through the buildings.

The great Western feature was the barbecue. Adjoining the pits in which the meats had been roasting over night, two big tents had been erected, and in these the crowds were served with barbecued meats, pickles, bread, Saratoga chips, roasting ears, watermelons, lemonade and coffee. There was plenty to eat for everybody, and the big crowds were handled with dispatch.

Early in the evening, the crowds began gathering in front of the main building, and at 7 o'clock President James M. Lynch began the speechmaking.

"The board of trustees trusts that you have thoroughly inspected the institution," he said. "This home has been a matter of slow growth. This institution was erected, has been and will be maintained by the International Typographical union. If after inspecting the institution you, as members of the organization, are proud of it, of the progress it has made and of the way it is conducted, we ask that you go out into the country and tell others what you have seen here. [illegible]"

Secretary-Treasurer Bramwood outlined the steady growth and history of the home during the ten years during which he has been connected with the management of the home.

"I have often thought that the union printers of America do not realize what they have at Colorado Springs," he said. "They haven't paid sufficient attention to advertising. They haven't claimed sufficient credit for their part of the work in establishing it. Many think that it is maintained by endowments. It was created and is maintained by the International Typographical union. I want to see every delegate and visitor go home and tell of the Union Printers home as he has found it. It is not, to my mind, the institution that will be here 25 years hence. I hope that we will soon provide buildings for the wives, at least of the old men who are compelled to seek the refuge of the home, so that there will be no separation of life partners. We will also have to care for more members. Some means should be arranged to bring the International Typographical union convention to the home often enough to acquaint every member of the organization with the work and what we have to do."

Hon. Alva Adams was then introduced and delivered the address of the evening. He said in part:

This Home stands out upon the annals of humanity as Pike's Peak [illegible] from the plain. It is a tribute to the printers' heart as their efforts and generous contributions to the 8-hour and union struggle are tributes to their loyalty and devotion to the welfare of their brother craftsmen.

Guided by the gods was your attention when it selected Colorado Springs as the seat of your Printers home—only the pessimist and the dead can fail to find here happiness and lengthened days. Here in a high degree, Nature has gathered every remedy in her pharmacy—sunshine, air, temperature, scenery. In this favored spot the invalid gains new years and the well live forever.

"Pike's Peak or bust" is to you but a picturesque phrase of a day that is gone. The prairie schooner has sailed its last voyage. You come to the base of Pike's Peak in a Pullman, and can go to its summit lifted by a locomotive in an hour's time.

The printers may not be the best people on earth, but there are none better, and every citizen welcomes you to Colorado. There is no section that will not be proud to greet you. Interest, as well as courtesy and friendship, are guarantees of the sincerity of our welcome. Colorado believes in advertising. We have land and mines, sugar and alfalfa, climate and scenery, to sell. Many of you are editors and publishers as well as printers. The newspaper is the best and most profitable vehicle of advertising; we want you to see our people, homes, resources and opportunities, knowing that your sense of truth will induce you to carry the news of Colorado's greatness to all mankind.

My mind has ever resented the insinuations of the popular bon mot that "Franklin was a printer that did not drink, a philosopher who wrote common sense, and an officeholder who did not steal." My experience is, that [illegible] philosophers who write common sense than follow their own teachings.

HARNESS ENTRIES FOR RACE MEET AT ROSWELL NEXT WEEK

A complete list of the harness entries for the race meet to be given at Roswell August 21-25, inclusive, was made public by the Colorado Springs Social Driving club yesterday.

Five thousand dollars in purses has been hung up by the Driving club. The harness races will be worth $400 and $500 to the winners, divided 50, 25, 15, and 10 per cent. For the running races from $100 to $200 will be offered. The Colorado Springs derby, on Colorado Springs day, August 22, will bring the winner $200. On this day the merchants may declare a half holiday.

The trotting events were not so well filled as were the pacing races, so various trots and free-for-alls will be arranged later. In the free-for-all trot Secretary K. Macdermid has already secured such well-known entries as Confienza, 2:12¾, winner of the M. & M. stake at Denver in 1905, and recently purchased from Ed. Gaylord by the Brown Brothers, of Cheyenne; Jim Ferry, the fast 2:09¾ horse owned by Wright & Stoddard, Denver; Briny K., owned by J. Fred Roberts, of Denver, and J. J. M. Jr., 2:14¾, belonging to Sam Bernard, of this city.

TO PROTECT PEOPLE IN TWO-FARE FIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Acting Mayor McGowan today issued a proclamation calling upon all citizens to refrain from further disturbances along the lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company leading to Coney Island, assuring the people that their rights are to be fully protected under the rebate receipt plan which has been adopted for those who pay the double fare now in dispute.

For the third time since the two-fare dispute began, William Newberry, district superintendent of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company, was arrested tonight, charged with assaulting a passenger last Monday. Earlier in the day Newberry, together with John F. Calderwood, vice president, and Dow S. Smith, general traffic manager, had been held in $1,000 bail on a charge of inciting to riot.

Two inspectors were also arrested tonight on a warrant charging assault.

SILENT BUT EXPRESSIVE.

Bootblacks on the Hoboken ferry boats wear caps on top of which in gold letters is the injunction that they must not solicit shines. This order was made some time ago by the company on complaints of passengers who were annoyed by the young sons of Italy yelling "Shinemup! Shinemup!" The boys now evade this order by going to each passenger and silently pointing to his shoes as though he ought to be reminded that they were dirty and that the bootblack needed a job. Some passengers have become exasperated at this renewal of a nuisance in another form and threaten all sorts of reprisals if they are not permitted to peruse their newspapers in peace.

DRIFTING TOWARDS BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Many people who are neglecting symptoms of kidney trouble, hoping "it will wear away," are drifting towards Bright's Disease, which is kidney trouble in one of its worst forms.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

stops irregularities, strengthens the urinary organs and builds up the worn-out tissues of the kidneys so they will perform their functions properly. Healthy kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood as it passes through them. Diseased kidneys do not, and the poisonous waste matter is carried by the circulation to every part of the body, causing dizziness, backache, stomach trouble, sluggish liver, irregular heart action, etc.

If you have any signs of Kidney or Bladder Trouble commence taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once, as it will cure a slight disorder in a few days and prevent a fatal malady. It is pleasant to take and benefits the whole system.

How to Find Out.

You can easily determine if your kidneys are out of order by setting aside for 24 hours a bottle of the urine passed upon arising. If upon examination it is cloudy or milky or has a brick-dust sediment or small particles float about in it, your kidneys are diseased, and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE should be taken at once.

G. B. Burhans Testifies After Four Years.

G. B. Burhans of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes:

"About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped the brick-dust sediment and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed, and I am evidently cured to stay cured, and heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble."

REYES IS TRAITOR ASSERTS MENDOZA

FORMER WASHINGTON DIPLOMAT DENOUNCES COLOMBIA PRESIDENT—CITES INSTANCES OF GRAFT.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The Tribune tomorrow will say:

There has just been made public an open letter written by Diego Mendoza, recently minister of Colombia at Washington, to a member of the national assembly at Bogota, in which the diplomat denounces President Reyes of Colombia as a traitor to his country and accuses him of extreme bad faith. Never perhaps, has there been penned such a scathing denunciation of the head of a government by a diplomat, nominated by the man he attacked.

Senor Mendoza, who has just recently returned here from London, where, as a member of the Colombian congress he represented Colombia at the interparliamentary union, declared that President Reyes has, for fifteen years, entered into a secret agreement with President Amador of Panama under which the former department of Colombia assumes a part of the Colombian debt, thereby practically abandoning Colombia's rights on the isthmus, and this, he says, stamps Reyes a traitor. He tells also of President Reyes supposed financial interests in the lighthouse at Colon and asserts that the president sent to Washington an agent authorized to sell the lighthouse to the United States for $100,000, for which service he promised the agent a commission of 10 per cent.

After explaining at some length and in the most vigorous Castilian how the secret negotiations of President Reyes made impossible the success of his own mission at Washington which he says was the honorable solution of the secession of Panama from Colombia, Senor Mendoza makes the following statement in proof of his assertion that there exists in the United States a widespread sympathy with his country:

"The people of the United States desire that justice be done Colombia for the loss of Panama and believe in the arbitration of the question. In proof of this, the holders of certain bonds of North Carolina have offered me $1,000,000 in bonds, payable at the federal treasury, to aid Colombia's cause. They also assured me that if we accept it other states in the union would do the same as North Carolina, because everybody with the exception of the president, recognizes the reason and justice of Colombia's position."

Senor Mendoza has arranged to distribute broadcast in Colombia copies of his vitriolic letter. It may be said, however, as is often the case, that they have been seized and confiscated. Under the circumstances, the former minister becomes, by his own action, an exile from his country, at least during the tenure of President Reyes.

DON'T KISS THE BABIES.

From the Baltimore Sun.

In a Paris journal Dr. Naipasse presents with much force the dangers to which babies are subjected by frequent and promiscuous kissing. The practice of treating the kiss as a mere form of salutation the doctor denounces as "bassi antipathique des dangereuse." He hastens to confess that he has no hope of suppressing the kiss among adults. Among adults of a certain age there prevails, the doctor thinks, the sentiment of the song, "Josephine Sold by Her Sisters," namely, "Where you have hygiene, good-by to pleasure," but he hopes to open the eyes of parents to the risks incurred by infants.

The kiss conveys bacteria which for the susceptible baby may prove to be pathogenic. An adult may be able to withstand microbes which will be fatal to the undeveloped constitution of the child. Diphtheria, scarlet fever, meningitis, erysipelas and tuberculosis are often communicated to infants by persons apparently in good health. It is pointed out that the mouth and nasal passages of most persons contain millions of microbes, which may be incapable of injury where they are, but become the cause of disease when conveyed to others. Among these are the microbe of pneumonia, of erysipelas, of diphtheria, of tuberculosis and of suppuration in its various forms. A person of strong constitution, while well and hearty, will withstand these agents of disease, thanks to the phagocytes which pounce upon and devour them, but the case is different with feeble infants and adults in a "run-down" condition.

The careful mother will accordingly take all precautions to prevent her baby from the becoming the victim of well-meaning but probably infected kissers. She will bear in mind also the fact that parts of city squares and parks supplied with seats occupied by consumptives out for an airing are not places which the nurse can safely be allowed to frequent with the baby. Thought must be given to the ways of nurses, who are seldom careful hygienists. Lotions will be used to remove or destroy the bacteria gathered by the baby in a morning's outing. Risks are inevitable, since microbes are everywhere. But they are more abundant in some places than in others, and nowhere are there more pathogenic germs than on the lips of those who regard a kiss as a mere form of salutation.

NEBRASKANS ARE FOR PROTECTION

REPUBLICANS DECIDE ON PLATFORM FOR STATE CONVENTION ON AUGUST 22. PROHIBIT PASSES.

OMAHA, Aug. 16.—The committee appointed by the state committee to prepare a platform to be submitted to the Republican state convention August 22 completed its work this afternoon and it was at once made public.

After indorsing the past record of the Republican party and noting with pride the work of the last congress the platform declares "unalterable allegiance to the principle of protection and approves the effort of the national administration to assure justice for the people against trusts."

The platform favors the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people. It also says:

"We declare ourselves as unalterably opposed to the domination of corporations in public affairs and urge the enactment by the next legislature of an antipass law that will prevent the issuance of any free pass, free ticket, free transportation or transportation known as newspaper or editorial mileage, except to bona fide employes of a railroad company and to members of their immediate families and care takers of live stock."

An employer's liability bill is favored and the platform says:

"We recommend to our representatives in congress to urge a speedy adoption of such laws as will permit the leasing, sale or other disposition of the government lands in the western portion of the state in such a manner as will best protect the interest of the residents."

LONGWORTH TO ACT FOR POLICY HOLDERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Representative Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati today was elected secretary of the international policy holders committee of the New York and Mutual Life Insurance companies to succeed Seymour Eaton, who recently resigned. This action was taken at a meeting of the executive committee at which Mr. Longworth was present. A clerk will be appointed to perform the current duties, as Mr. Longworth is leaving for his home in Ohio in a few days to look after his political interests.

The committee also discussed candidates for trustees for both the New York and Mutual companies and held a conference with the sub-committees of the Mutual Life policy holders association at which further progress was made in the selection of a joint ticket for Mutual trustees.

Thousands of Women ARE MADE WELL AND STRONG

Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Rests Upon the Fact That It Really Does Make Sick Women Well.

Thousands upon thousands of American women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Their letters are on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office, and prove this statement to be a fact and not a mere boast.

Overshadowing indeed is the success of this great medicine, and compared with it all other medicines and treatment for women are experiments.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such widespread results for good?

Why has it lived and thrived and done its glorious work for a quarter of a century?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has even approached its success is plainly and positively because there is no other medicine in the world so good for women's ills.

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant—not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructor ever discovered to act directly upon the female system, positively curing disease and displacements and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due. If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience that it will effect a cure.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), weakness, displacements, inflammation, ulceration, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Anyway write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. It's free and always helpful.

NEGRESS LED MOB AVENGING A CRIME

AFTER ASSAILANT OF WHITE GIRL IS IDENTIFIED SHE FIRES FIRST SHOT AT NEGRO FIEND.

GREENWOOD, S. C., Aug. 16.—Bob Davis, the negro who assaulted Miss Jennie Brooks near here Monday, was lynched here at 7 o'clock tonight. Governor Heyward made a strong appeal to save the negro, but the mob was determined and shot the negro to death. The negro, who was captured this afternoon near Ninety Six, was positively identified by Miss Brooks. He was led to within a hundred yards of the Brooks home and lynched, a negro woman firing the first shot.

Governor Heyward reached the scene shortly after the negro had been captured. A platform was erected in a fence corner on the premises of the victim of the negro from which Governor Heyward addressed the mob. The governor was cheered, but the mob removed the prisoner from the view of the governor and riddled him with bullets.

The militia in that section of the state is now encamped at Chickamauga and there were no nearby troops to be called out.

The governor's guards and the Richland volunteers of this city had been ordered to hold themselves in readiness in the event that their services were needed, but the mob acted too quickly.

PREACHER'S YACHT IS WRECKED BY EXPLOSION

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The 60-foot naphtha yacht, Hermes, belonging to the Rev. J. C. White of Pittsburg, was blown up by the ignition of gas in the hold, off Green Point, tonight. There had been a leak in the boat for some days and the fluid was all drawn from the tank. Tonight, Engineer Schaefer went into the hold with a lantern to look for the trouble. Schaefer was severely burned. The Rev. Mr. White is at the Booth house.

there are office-holders who do not steal, though there are some who do. One skunk can raise more commotion and remark in a camp meeting of a summer evening than all the squirrels, rabbits and sweet and cleanly animals in the forest. So a single drunken printer, a fool philosopher or a grafting official can cast a stain upon a thousand good clean men.

I now wish to speak a few minutes about your organization, its work and mission. Your stand for conservative unionism and the justice you have fought for better and higher standards of work, wages and life must commend the Typographical union to the sympathy of every intelligent toiler in the land, not only every workman, but every patriotic citizen should encourage your efforts to lift the average of citizenship, for it is eternally true that the destiny of this republic depends not upon the wealth of the few, not upon the Sages and Rockefellers, not upon an aristocracy of gold, but upon the prosperity, morals and intelligence of the millions. Free government in America is more concerned as to the hours and wages of labor than it is as to dividends upon the wind and water securities of Wall Street and other trust centers. More interested in building up and protecting manhood than in stability of those great combinations which have become so colossal that they shadow courts, legislatures and free institutions. Our country should be more interested in making men than in making money—character building is the best business our people can engage in. A clean upright man is a positive asset to the state.

You ask for an eight-hour day, for arbitrations of differences, for a living wage, for conditions that will nourish and develop a citizenship worthy of liberty and the flag. Against you the tyranny of injunction, the allied selfishness that contends for lower wages and longer hours. Under wise leadership you have won many battles; your printed records tell a wonderful story of honorable industrial warfare; the source of every dollar collected, the distribution of every dollar spent; every act in the contest is open to public inspection. Dare your opponents show as open an accounting? Back of your leaders there has stood and stands today as loyal an army of workmen as ever contended for their rights. Millions earned by honest toil have poured into the war chest of the Typographical union. No single dollar was tainted, they came from the wage of honest men. No dollar has been ignobly spent.

Back of the question of hours there lies the secret—ulterior purpose to cripple and destroy unionism. Industries combine, employers unite to break up the union of employes. By their code it is a virtue for wealth and power to act together, but a crime for workmen to combine. In theory the scale of justice is evenly poised; in practice judgment and injunction point but one way. In contest against legitimate unionism one side demands longer hours and less wage. The unions would make every workman a man as well as a hand. They realize that men have souls as well as hands.

There is no deception in the fight the printers union is making. Unionism means better wages, better conditions. To battle for these is the right, yea, the duty of every toiler. To seek the seal and method of those who would outlaw unionism and control and dictate the labor market, a stranger might infer that labor had been receiving more than its due share in the industrial partnership. If they have, where are their monuments of affluence? Where do they bank their surplus? Labor has never been over-paid—it never will be. Yet there are always two sides to every industrial controversy. Each party has its right and in a land of justice and humanity, conciliation and arbitration should secure these rights. In all the history of labor conflict there is nothing so cruel, nothing so brutal, as the arrogant reply, "We have nothing to arbitrate."

"When the impartial historian shall write the annals of labor's one hundred years war, he will linger with satisfaction and pride over the record of the Typographical union. They have been sane, sensible and firm. No law has been broken, no outrage committed; no right invaded. Lawlessness and outrage cannot be tolerated. They must be stamped out, whether within or without a union; but all men who desire the welfare of the masses can not but sympathize with the Typographical union in their lawful efforts to improve their condition. Your example can be of profit to every branch of industry. If I read aright the signs of national destiny, the path of safety for this nation will be along the line of a sensible, conservative union and alliance of industrial forces. There is no better exponent of this principle than the Typographical union."

Following Mr. Adams, W. T. Anderson, of Macon, Ga., chairman of the laws committee, responded in behalf of the visitors.

Stanley B. Wilson, delegate from the Los Angeles union, then made a polished and eloquent speech, paying a grand and fitting tribute to the home.

At night the buildings and grounds were brilliantly illuminated. The entrance arch, the roadway and the main building were light up by long streamers of incandescent lights. The central feature of the illumination was a large "8 Hours" design placed conspicuously on the front of the main building. A fireworks display followed the speeches.

Dancing on a platform especially erected on the croquet grounds concluded the day's festivities. Light refreshments were served during the evening. Band music added to the charm of the entertainment both afternoon and evening.

HOW TO FIND OUT

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in The Colorado Springs Daily Gazette. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

suiting the officers who handle the money. It would be suicidal to reduce the strike benefit. The executive council will extend every possible aid to the subordinate unions during the eight-hour strike. Not a union in the jurisdiction should be allowed to retain one cent of International Typographical Union money, even though collected as the ten per cent assessment from its own members and used in conducting the strike in its own city. It is a business proposition. The executive council intends to support the New York union, as it does every other union, to the fullest possible extent. We are not asking it to reduce its benefits. The executive council is solidly behind the fighting unions to the last dollar in the treasury. We intend to win the fight."

The priority law was fully discussed, and the [illegible] as accepted by the convention on a commendation of the laws committee, is an indorsement of President Lynch's decision, and will not interrupt present conditions. The principle of the priority law which has been in force for many years was construed to mean that in filling regular situations the preference shall be given to the competent "sub" who is oldest in the point of continuous service. Debate on this question lasted nearly an hour.

The third important change was the alteration of the obligation for members, so that the oath will apply only to matters pertaining to the printing industries. The clause "that my fidelity to the union and my duty to the members thereof shall in no wise be interfered with by any allegiance that I may now or hereafter owe to any organization, social, political or religious, secret or otherwise," has been held by many persons to place the union above family, church, state or any other allegiance, and it is to make the oath clearer that the restriction was adopted. This question will be submitted to the referendum.

A proposition submitted by the laws committee to the effect that the proposed increase in the president's and secretary's salaries do not take effect until the expiration of their present terms, was withdrawn after discussion and a resolution was passed providing that a note be placed on the referendum ballot stating that it is the sense of the convention that $2,000 is only a fair compensation for the services rendered.

A proposition to advertise the union label was referred to the label committee.

The resolution of Delegate Mayo Parrett of Galveston that the convention be held in Colorado Springs every fourth or fifth year was reported upon unfavorably by the laws committee, the report being concurred in by the delegates. In the debate it was held the trip to Colorado Springs is too long and expensive for a majority of unions to warrant such frequent conventions here.

Questions affecting the monotype operator were left to the executive council with power to act.

A proposition for the incorporation of a company to provide funds for the erection of a modern office building was lost.

The proposition to divide the jurisdiction into five districts for the purpose of electing an executive council was reported upon unfavorably, and concurred in by the convention.

Plans for a pension system were referred to the committee to be appointed in accordance with Wednesday's decision.

The report of the committee on finances was received and acted upon. It was mainly an account of the auditing of the secretary-treasurer's books, which were found correct.

The appeal of the Mailers Trade District union for relief from the payment of the ten per cent assessment was reported upon unfavorably, but was referred by the convention to the executive council with power to act.

GARFIELD PARK BANK, CHICAGO, IS INSOLVENT

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—The Garfield Park bank, an institution on West Madison street, was placed in the hands of a receiver late this afternoon by Judge Bethea in the United States district court. Three creditors filed the petition and also asked that Ellis E. Drake, president of the bank, be declared insolvent.

The collapse of the Milwaukee Avenue State bank, is said to have caused the closing of the smaller institution. No statement of assets or liabilities was presented to the court.

BEAUTIFYING NORTH PARK.

UNDER THE new curb and sidewalk ordinances recently enacted by the Council the city administration has a chance to beautify North Park which by no means should be neglected.

It will be remembered that following the passage of the sidewalk ordinance the Council ordered the construction of cement walks on both sides of Tejon Street and Nevada Avenue from Fountain Street to Cache la Poudre. This makes necessary the construction of walks along the east and west sides of North Park, and it is earnestly to be hoped that the Council will go a step further and order the construction of walks on the north and south sides also. To build walks only on two sides would give the park a ragged, unfinished appearance, which would be most undesirable.

Under the provisions of the new curb ordinance a permanent curb line is established for each street and the owner of abutting property may extend his curb to that line. On Tejon Street the curb line is fixed at a distance of fifteen feet from the property line, on Bijou Street, twelve feet, on Nevada Avenue nineteen feet, and on Platte Avenue thirty-eight feet. Inasmuch as the city owns all of North Park, which is a full block in extent, it would not be necessary to secure the consent of any other property owners. There is nothing to prevent it extending the curbs to the distances above indicated and parking the inclosed space, surrounding the inclosed area with a substantial cement curb.

This would make North Park an object lesson in the advantages to be gained from a proper application of the new sidewalk and curb ordinance. It is more frequented than any other public ground in the city. It is a beautiful spot now but can be made far more beautiful by the expenditure of a small amount of money. No new law is needed to carry on this work, only a resolution by the Council, and the effect would be worth the amount of money expended many times over. North Park is visited or passed daily by thousands of people—at this season the number runs into tens of thousands, and we may gain an idea of the increased delight these improvements would afford all beholders by picturing to ourselves broad cement walks surrounded by an ample expanse of greensward, where now is merely a dusty waste of gravel.

Street Commissioner Gray is only delaying the construction of walks on the east and west sides of the park until after the tourist season is ended. Before the time comes for him to begin this work the Council should by all means empower him to make the additional improvements here suggested.

AMERICA AND JAPAN.

IN ST. PETERSBURG, where the press censor and not the editor wields the blue pencil, any kind of a story that will pass the watchful eye of that official is good copy. Perhaps this accounts for the yarn published a few days ago by the Novoe Vremya concerning the probability of a war between Japan and the United States. We have no reliable information as to [illegible] St. Petersburg experiences what are known in this country as dog days, but at [illegible] story may be set down in the class of hot weather stories with which certain American papers seek to awaken the jaded imagination of their readers during the hot season.

According to the Novoe Vremya, Japan is going to make war on the United States, win an easy victory and take the Philippines, Hawaii and California as the price of peace. Just what the United States will be doing while this is happening our esteemed Russian contemporary does not venture to predict, but the conclusion presupposes that it will be doing the same sort of stunt that Russia performed for a period of some fifteen months preceding the Battle of the Sea of Japan.

It is hardly likely that this absurd prophecy is believed even by its author, but it is nevertheless only natural that the Russians should be indulging in such dreams. They have been soundly trounced by the Japanese, and to see somebody else get the same kind of treatment would be a salve to their feelings. This country, which they once professed to love so well and whose refusal to extend them sympathy in their recent contest was a source of such great disappointment, is just now the special object of their dislike. The ideals and aspirations of Russian officialdom and the American people are as far apart as the poles. We have a habit, decidedly unpleasant to them, of expressing the severest condemnation of their manifold barbarities and the extremest contempt for their utter lack of humanity. In their fight with Japan our sympathy was all for their opponent, and in their later internal troubles it has also been for the victims of injustice. Official remonstrances have even been made against their government's method of treating its Jewish subjects, and though this remonstrance was ineffectual its presentation nevertheless deeply wounded Russian pride.

It was probably by feeding its brain on these unwholesome reflections that the Novoe Vremya induced its bad dreams anent the impending sacrifice of the United States on the point of the Japanese sword, but as for the dream itself it is [illegible] to take it seriously. In [illegible] Korea and Manchuria Japan has about all of the foreign territory she can well assimilate, without worrying about the Philippines, Hawaii and California. Moreover she has internal problems that will keep her busy for a good many years to come and which render her the last nation in the world, save only Russia, to risk the outcome of another foreign war. The world is only just beginning to learn the tremendous price of the Japanese victory over Russia. Every battle won exhausted her remaining resources to such an extent that it had the effect of a partial defeat. Another victory like Mukden or Liaoyang would have left the Japanese army almost as weak as its enemy, and there could have been but one naval Battle of the Sea of Japan for the reason that the Mikado's fleet was unequal to another. President Roosevelt's intervention came just in the nick of time to save Russia, but it was also the salvation of Japan.

The Japanese nation possesses wonderful recuperative powers, but many years must pass before it can throw off its enormous load of debt and otherwise rid itself of the disastrous after-effects of its late war. When it has done this and placed itself in a position for another possible contest it will have to seek for a long time, even if it is aggressively inclined, to find a cause for war with the United States. And even if it should be so unlucky as to find one it would soon learn that it had engaged in an undertaking compared with which the Russian war was a mere suppression of a street fight. To transport an invading army across a strait thirty or forty miles wide is one thing; to carry it over 8,000 miles of sea is another. And so far as the sea fighting is concerned, the United States now has a fleet more than twice as large as Japan's and it is building ships at a rate which, if continued, as it undoubtedly will be, will fully preserve this proportion. And best of all, the men behind the guns in the American Navy may safely be accounted the equals of their possible antagonists in the Mikado's fleet. At any rate, if the Novoe Vremya's prediction of war ever comes true, the American people will be perfectly willing to try conclusions.

PERSIA FALLS INTO LINE.

THE EDICT of the Shah of Persia granting his country a national assembly, or parliament, is particularly significant at this time when the attention of the world is directed toward the struggle of the Russian people to secure actual representative government. Persia is one of the most ancient of modern nations. Its civilization is peculiarly Asiatic, and it is so far off the beaten track of international communication as to make it one of the least known of all Eastern countries. It has always been an absolute monarchy in which the Shah, or king, was the supreme despot in both temporal and spiritual affairs. If there has been a real demand by the people for participation in the government little has been heard of it in the Western world.

The history of the reigning dynasty has been exceedingly stormy, the immediate predecessor of the present ruler having fallen by the bullet of an assassin, and this was also the fate of several other Persian rulers during the last century. But this condition has been attributed more to the natural violence of the Persian disposition than to actual popular discontent with the government, in which respect it is similar to the conditions prevailing in Turkey. But now without warning comes an announcement that henceforth Persia is to have a parliament by means of which the people will be given a voice in the government. Of course this parliament, as in other countries in which the mass of the people are ignorant and degraded, will be composed exclusively of representatives of the higher classes such as the clergy, the professional men, and merchants. But the fact that it is a step toward constitutionalism is highly significant.

Little by little absolute despotism is vanishing from the earth. It is scarcely more than a century since the rebirth of the constitutional idea. England has possessed representative government for seven centuries, or since the granting of Magna Charta, but it was not until the latter part of the Eighteenth Century that the ideas therein represented began to take deep root in the minds of other European peoples. The American Revolution gave these ideas an impetus which swept Europe, and the first effect was the French Revolution. After that there was no stemming the tide. One by one the nations of Europe changed from despotism to constitutionalism, though in some the degree of popular participation in the affairs of government was and still is greater than in others. Russia alone held steadfastly to the exploded idea of the divine right of kings, but within the last year even the Muscovite autocracy has been compelled to yield one point after another until now its doom is as certain as the rising of the sun.

Persia does not bulk very large in the affairs of the world but the action of its government in recognizing the changed order is highly significant inasmuch as it is another evidence that Asia is following the example of Europe and the Americas in adopting at least the outward forms of republicanism. Of the more important governments only China and Turkey now remain absolute monarchies, and it has been hinted that before many years China is to have a national assembly. Turkey, though situated in Europe, is really an Asiatic nation, but soon or late the Sultan will be compelled to yield to the universal demand. The action of the Persian ruler is likely to exert a profound influence on Turkish opinion and hasten the day when the Sultan will follow the example of his royal neighbor.

LIEUT. PIKE'S DIARY

For One Hundred Years Ago Today

Sunday, 17th August—We embarked at five o'clock and proceeded twelve miles to breakfast; at four o'clock arrived at a French house on the eastern shore, where then resided a [illegible] who was married to an Osage woman, and spoke French only. We afterwards passed the position where Mr. Chouteau formerly had his fort, not a vestige of which was remaining, the spot being marked only by the superior growth of vegetation. Here the river bank is one solid bed of stone coal, just below which is a very shoal and rapid ripple. From hence to the village of the Grand Osage the distance is nine miles across a large prairie, but by water fifty. We came about two miles above, and encamped on the western shore. This day the river has been generally bounded by prairies on both sides. Distance advanced forty-one and a half miles."

BREAKING WILLS.

From the Washington Star.

One of the most deplorable spectacles witnessed in modern times is the scramble of the heirs of a wealthy person for a larger portion of the estate than that which is allotted to them by will. Contests over property in the courts have become so frequent that it is now often asserted that there is no virtue whatever in a last will and testament, but that the instrument is only so good as it may satisfy the cupidity of those akin to the deceased. The larger the estate and the more explicit the instructions left by the testator, the more determined the contestants to break its terms and obtain more than their departed kinsman believed to be their rightful portion. The question arises, has a man the right to dispose of his property after death according to his own conception of justice and propriety, or is the distribution of his estate to be relegated to the demands of the heirs and the rulings of the court? In other words, is there any validity whatever in a will?

ARMY AND CIRCUS METHODS.

From the Portland Oregonian.

A couple of army officers who spent some time accompanying one of the large circuses for the purpose of learning whether any of the methods could be adapted to army use have reported adversely. They found the system and discipline admirable, but the equipment too heavy and the subsistence not suitable to army needs. This finding is what might be expected. If a modern circus were to hamper its movements with the red tape which is such a conspicuous feature of all government operations the big tent would never be up in time for the "highly instructive, pleasing and refined entertainment which takes place immediately after the big show." It may be an open question whether it would be possible for the government to adopt circus methods in moving troops and other work. There is no question, however, about the impossibility of the American circus ever adopting army methods.

WIND EDITOR EARNS HIS SALARY.

From the Grindstone (S. D.) Bee.

The wind blew slightly on Tuesday. Prairie avenue, which originally ran east and west, was blown around and now runs north and south. It was badly bent in several places, due to contact with fence posts, and about three rods were blown to Lake hill. It was staked down by Judge Conniff and now does duty as the main street.

MUSSING UP TEXAS STREETS.

From the Quincy (Ill.) Whig.

Citizens of Columbus, Tex., held mass meetings to denounce the careless habit of certain feudists of shooting each other upon the public highways. The residents say that the streets belong to the people, but not for the purpose of artillery practice. The feudists have grown so shiftless and irresponsible that they have the sidewalks all mussed up with the products of their handiwork and almost every morning the hired girl has to come out with the garden hose and wash up the ruddy evidences of the schuetzenfest of the previous night. The innocent bystander who steps forth to gaze at the vista is liable to be unwittingly filled so full of lead that his remains are worth more at the foundry than at the morgue.

The Prisoner of Zenda

Being the History of Three Months in the Life of an English Gentleman

By ANTHONY HOPE.

Eleventh Installment—Copyright, 1894 by Henry Holt and Company, New York.

"I'm sorry you won't live to see it," I observed.

"Has his majesty done me the honor to fasten a particular quarrel on me?"

"I would you were a few years older, though."

"Oh, God gives years, but the devil gives increase," laughed he. "I can hold my own."

"How is your prisoner?" I asked.

"The k——"

"Your prisoner."

"I forgot your wishes, sire. Well, he is alive."

He rose to his feet; I imitated him. Then, with a smile, he said:

"And the pretty princess? Faith, I'll wager the next Elphberg will be red enough, for all that Black Michael will be called his father."

I sprang a step toward him, clenching my hand. He did not move an inch, and his lip curled in insolent amusement.

"Go, while your skin's whole!" I muttered. He had repaid me with interest my hit about his mother.

Then came the most audacious thing I have known in my life. My friends were some thirty yards away. Rupert called to a groom to bring him his horse, and dismissed the fellow with a crown. The horse stood near; I stood still, suspecting nothing. Rupert made as though to mount; then he suddenly turned to me, his left hand resting on his belt, his right outstretched:

"Shake hands," he said.

I bowed, and did as he had foreseen—I put my hands behind me. Quicker than thought his left hand darted out at me, and a small dagger flashed in the air; he struck me in the left shoulder—had I not swerved it had been my heart. With a cry I staggered back. Without touching the stirrup, he leaped upon his horse and was off like an arrow, pursued by cries and revolver shots—the last as useless as the first—and I sank into my chair, bleeding profusely, as I watched the devil's brat disappear down the long avenue. My friends surrounded me, and then I fainted.

I suppose that I was put to bed, and there lay unconscious or half conscious for many hours; for it was night when I awoke to my full mind, and found Fritz beside me. I was weak and weary, but he bade me be of good cheer, saying that my wound would soon heal, and that meanwhile all had gone well, for Johann, the keeper, had fallen into the snare we had laid for him, and was even now in the house.

"And the queer thing is," pursued Fritz, "that I fancy he's not altogether sorry to find himself here. He seems to think that, when Black Michael has brought off his coup, witnesses of how it was effected—saying, of course, the Six themselves—will not be at a premium."

This idea argued a shrewdness in our captive which led me to build hopes on his assistance. I ordered him to be brought in at once. Sapt conducted him, and set him in a chair by my bedside. He was sullen and afraid, but, to say the truth, after young Rupert's exploit we also had our fears, and if he got as far as possible from Sapt's formidable six-shooter, Sapt kept him as far as he could from me. Moreover, when he came in his hands were bound, but that I would not suffer.

I need not stay to recount the safeguards and rewards we promised the fellow—all of which were honorably observed and paid, so that he lives now in prosperity (though where I may not mention); and we were the more free inasmuch as we soon learned that he was rather a weak man than a wicked, and had acted throughout this matter more from fear of the duke and of his own brother Max than for any love of what was done. But he had persuaded all of his loyalty; and though nor in their secret counsels, was yet, by his knowledge of their dispositions within the castle, able to lay bare before us the very heart of their devices. And here, in brief, is his story:

Below the level of the ground in the castle, approached by a flight of stone steps which abutted on the end of the drawbridge, were situated two small rooms, cut out of the rock itself. The outer of the two had no window, but was always lighted with candles; the inner had one square window, which gave upon the moat. In this inner room there lay always, day and night, three of the Six; and the instructions of Duke Michael were that on any attack being made on the outer room, the three were to defend the door of it so long as they could without risk to themselves. But as soon as the door should be in danger of being forced, then Rupert Hentzau or Detchard (for one of these two was always there) should leave the others to hold it as long as they could, and himself pass into the inner room, and, without more ado, kill the king, who lay there, well treated indeed, but without weapons, and his arms confined in fine steel chains, which did not allow him to move his elbow more than three inches from his shoulder. Thus, before the outer door were stormed, the king would be dead. And his body? For his body would be evidence as damning as himself.

"Nay, sir," said Johann, "his Highness thought of that. While the two hold the outer room the one who has killed the king unlocks the bars in the square window (they turn on a hinge). The window now gives no light, for its mouth is choked by a great pipe of earthenware; and this pipe, which is large enough to let pass through it the body of a man, passes into the moat, coming to an end immediately above the water, so that there is no perceptible interval between water and pipe. The king being dead, his murderer swiftly ties a weight to the body, and dragging it to the window, raises it by a pulley (for, lest the weight should prove too great, Detchard has provided one) till it is level with the mouth of the pipe. He inserts the feet in the pipe, and pushes the body down. Silently, without splash or sound, it falls into the moat, which is twenty feet deep thereabouts. This done, the murderer cries loudly, 'All's well!' and himself slides down the pipe; and the others, if they can and the attack is not too hot, run to the inner room and seeking a moment's delay, bar the door, and in their turn slide down. And though the king rises not from the bottom, they rise and swim round to the other side, where the orders are for men to wait them with ropes, to haul them out, and horses. And here, if things go ill, the duke will join them and seek safety by riding; but if all goes well they will return to the castle, and have their enemies in a trap. That, sir, is the plan of his Highness for the disposal of the king in case of need. But it is not to be used till the last; for, as we all know, he is not minded to kill the king unless he can, before or soon after, kill you also, sir. Now, sir, I have spoken the truth, as God is my witness, and I pray you to shield me from the vengeance of Duke Michael; for if, after he knows what I have done, I fall into his hands, I shall pray for one thing out of all the world—a speedy death; and that I shall not obtain from him!"

The fellow's story was rudely told, but our questions supplemented his narrative. What he had told us applied to an armed attack; but if suspicions were aroused and there came overwhelming force such, for instance, as I, the king, could bring—the idea of resistance would be abandoned. The king would be quietly murdered and slid down the pipe. And—here comes an ingenious touch—one of the Six would take his place in the cell, and on the entrance of the searchers loudly demand release and redress; and Michael, being summoned, would confess to hasty action, but he would say the man had angered him by seeking the favor of a lady in the castle (this was Antoinette de Mauban), and he had confined him there, as he conceived he, as Lord of Zenda, had a right to do. But he was now, on receiving his apology, content to let him go, and so end the gossip which, to his Highness' annoyance, had arisen concerning a prisoner in Zenda, and had give his visitors the trouble of this inquiry. The visitors, baffled, would retire, and Michael could, at his leisure, dispose of the body of the king.

Sapt, Fritz and I in my bed looked round on one another in horror and bewilderment at the cruelty and cunning of the plan. Whether I went in peace or in war, openly, at the head of a corps, or secretly by a stealthy assault, the king would be dead before I could come near him. If Michael were stronger and overcame my party, there would be an end. But if I were stronger, I should have no way to punish him, no means of proving any guilt in him without proving my own guilt also. On the other hand, I should be left as king (ah! for a moment my pulse quickened), and it would be for the future to witness the final struggle between him and me. He seemed to have made triumph possible and ruin impossible. At the worst he would stand where he had stood before I crossed his path—with but one man between him and the throne, and that man an impostor; at best there would be none left to stand against him. I had begun to think that Black Michael was overfond of leaving the fighting to his friends; but now I acknowledged that the brains, if not the arms, of the conspiracy were his.

"Does the king know this?" I asked.

"I and my brother," answered Johann, "put up the pipe, under the orders of my Lord of Hentzau. He was on guard that day, and the king asked my lord what it meant. 'Faith,' he answered, with his airy laugh, 'it's a new improvement on the ladder of Jacob, whereby, as you have read, sire, men pass from earth to heaven. We thought it not meet that your majesty should go, in case, sire, you must go, by the common route. So we have made you a pretty private passage, where the vulgar cannot stare at you or incommode your passage. That, sire, is the meaning of that pipe.' And he laughed and bowed, and prayed the king's leave to replenish the king's glass—for the king was at supper. And the king, though he is a brave man, as are all of his house, grew red and then white as he looked on the pipe and at the merry devil who mocked him. Ah, sir"—and the fellow shuddered—"it is not easy to sleep quiet in the castle of Zenda, for all of them would as soon cut a man's throat as play a game at cards; and my Lord Rupert would choose it sooner for a pastime than any other—aye, sooner than he would ruin a woman, though that he loves also."

The man ceased, and I bade Fritz take him away and have him carefully guarded; and, turning to him, I added:

"If anyone asks you if there is a prisoner in Zenda you may answer 'Yes.' But if any asks who the prisoner is, do not answer. For all my promises will not save you if any man here learns from you the truth as to the prisoner in Zenda. I'll kill you like a dog if the thing be so much as breathed within the house!"

Then, when he was gone, I looked at Sapt.

"It is a hard nut!" said I.

"So hard," said he, shaking his grizzled head, "that, as I think, this time next year is like to find you still King of Ruritania!" and he broke out into curses on Michael's cunning.

I lay back on my pillows.

"There seems to me," I observed, "to be two ways by which the king can come out of Zenda alive. One is by treachery in the duke's followers."

"You can leave that out," said Sapt.

"I hope not," I rejoined; "because the other I was about to mention is—by a miracle from Heaven!"

CHAPTER XIV.

It would have surprised the good people of Ruritania to know the foregoing talk, for, according to the official reports, I had suffered a grievous and accidental sprain through a received in the course of my sport. I caused the bulletins to be of a very serious character, and created great public excitement, whereby three things occurred: first, I gravely offended the medical faculty of Strelsau by refusing to summon to my bedside any of them save a young man, a friend of Fritz's, whom we could trust; secondly, I received word from Marshal Strakencz that my orders seemed to have no more weight than his, and that the Princess Flavia was leaving for the Tarlenheim under his unwilling escort (news whereat I strove not to be glad and proud); and thirdly, my brother, the Duke of Strelsau, although he was too well informed to believe the account of the origin of my sickness, was yet persuaded by the reports and by my seeming inactivity that I was in truth incapable of action, and that my life was in some danger. This I learned from the man Johann, whom I was compelled to trust and send back to Zenda, where, by the way, Rupert Hentzau had him soundly flogged for daring to smirch the morals of Zenda by staying out all night in the pursuits of love. This, from Rupert, Johann deeply resented, and the duke's approval of it did more to bind the keeper to my side than all my promises.

On Flavia's arrival I cannot dwell. Her joy at finding me up and well, instead of on my back and fighting with death, makes a picture that even now dances before my eyes till they grow too dim to see it; and her reproaches that I had not trusted even her must excuse the means I took to quiet them. In truth, to have her with me once more was like a taste of heaven to a damned soul, the sweeter for the inevitable doom that was to follow; and I rejoiced in being able to waste two whole days with her. And when I had wasted two days the Duke of Strelsau arranged a hunting party.

The stroke was near now. For Sapt and I, after anxious consultations, had resolved that we must risk a blow; our resolution being clinched by Johann's news that the king grew peaked, pale and ill, and that his health was breaking down under his rigorous confinement. Now a man—be he king or no king—may as well die swiftly, and, as becomes a gentleman, from bullet or thrust, as rot his life out in a cellar! That thought made prompt action advisable in the interests of the king; from my own point of view it grew more and more necessary. For Strakencz urged on me the need of a speedy marriage, and my own inclinations seconded him with such terrible insistence that I feared for my resolution. I do not believe that I should have done the deed I dreamt of, but I might have come to flight, and my flight would have ruined the cause. And—yes, I am no saint (ask my little sister-in-law)—and worse still might have happened.

It is perhaps as strange a thing as has ever been in the history of a country that the king's brother and the king's personator, in a time of profound outward peace, near a placid, undisturbed country town, under semblance of amity, should wage a desperate war for the person and life of the king. Yet such was the struggle that began now between Zenda and Tarlenheim. When I look back on the time I seem to myself to have been half mad. Sapt has told me that I suffered no interference and listened to no remonstrances; and if ever a king of Ruritania ruled like a despot I was, in those days, the man. Look where I would, I saw nothing that made life sweet to me, and I took my life in my hand and carried it carelessly as a man dangles an old glove. At first they strove to guard me, to keep me safe, to persuade me not to expose myself; but when they saw how I was set there grew up among them—whether they knew the truth or not—a feeling that Fate ruled the issue, and that I must be left to play my game with Michael my own way.

Late next night I rose from the table where Flavia had sat by me, and conducted her to the door of her apartments. There I kissed her hand, and bade her sleep sound and wake to happy days. Then I changed my clothes and went out. Sapt and Fritz were waiting for me with three men and the horses. Over his saddle Sapt carried a long coil of rope, and both were heavily armed. I had with me a short stout cudgel and a long knife. Making a circuit, we avoided the town, and in an hour found ourselves slowly mounting the hill that led to the castle of Zenda. The night was dark and very stormy; gusts of wind and spits of rain caught us as we breasted the incline, and the great trees moaned and sighed. When we came to a thick clump, about a quarter of a mile from the castle, we bade our three friends hide there with the horses. Sapt had a whistle, and they could rejoin us in a few moments if danger came; but up till now we had met no one. I hoped that Michael was still off his guard, believing me to be safe in bed. However that might be, we gained the top of the hill without accident, and found ourselves on the edge of the moat where it sweeps under the road, separating the old castle from it. A tree stood on the edge of the bank, and Sapt silently and diligently set to make fast the rope. I stripped off my boots, took a pull at a flask of brandy, loosened the knife in its sheath, and took the cudgel between my teeth. Then I shook hands with my friends, not heeding a last look of entreaty from Fritz, and laid hold of the rope. I was going to have a look at Jacob's ladder.

COINCIDENCE, OR WHAT?

From the Kansas City Star.

William White, aged 26, a traveling salesman for the Kansas City Curled Hair Works, while asleep in his room in the Hotel Superba, Wednesday night, dreamed that his aunt, Mrs. Ellen Lahey, living in Carthage, N. C., was calling to him. She told him she was dying and that he should come and claim her estate, valued at $600,000. In her left hand she held a watch which indicated the time to be thirty-four minutes after 2, and with her right she beckoned to him pleadingly. Upon awakening at 6 o'clock the vision was perfectly distinct to the smallest detail. He at once telegraphed his father in Binghamton, N. Y., and within half an hour received this dispatch:

"Aunt Ellen died suddenly of heart failure, November 16, 1872."

"There are 40 cents charges," said the messenger boy.

"THE WORKING CLASS MUST HAVE A PARTY OF ITS OWN"

—VICTOR L. BERGER.

Victor L. Berger, editor of the Milwaukee Social Herald Democrat, is in this city attending the International Typographical union convention as a delegate from the Milwaukee local. Mr. Berger is a strong socialist, following in his home town, and in 1904 polled 1930 votes for mayor on that ticket. On another occasion he was a candidate for congress, being defeated by only a few votes. In this campaign, Mr. Berger secured 6,000 votes more than did the Democratic candidate.

In an interview regarding the attitude of the socialists toward the trade unions, Mr. Berger said last night:

"The policy of the socialists towards the trade unions and especially the position of the socialists in the trades union movement has often been misunderstood.

"I have always pleaded that discussion of religion and party politics and similar matters should be kept out of the unions, but some socialists think that the trades unionist must be advised to join the socialist party. Even this advice I do not find necessary to give him.

"First, I do not give him this advice, because any attempt at an understanding with union men of other party politics would be out of the question.

"Second, because I consider this advice superfluous. I am so much convinced of the conquering strength of the socialist ideas and their power of abstraction that I know they are gradually winning over the entire working class, even if we do not preach and propagate in the trades unions every day.

"The attitude of the different state governments and also of the national government towards the demands of labor even when presented by non-socialist workingmen, will take care of that.

"And what is even of more importance, the logic of the economic development with its trusts and its concentration of wealth, will compel this nation to accept socialism or go back into barbarism.

"Besides, let us not forget that in the sphere of social reforms as elsewhere, the proverb holds good, that 'appetite comes with eating.' And there is no need to say which of all the political parties is resolved and in duty bound to best satisfy the appetite of the working class for reforms. Let us have some confidence in our own cause.

"I therefore maintain that party politics and religious discussions must be kept out of the unions. But I maintain that all the more and all the more earnestly they must carry on workingmen's politics, class struggle politics.

"The working class must have a party of its own which every union man must join sooner or later—not as a union man—but as a workman and citizen. And that party can, of course, be no other than the liberalist party.

"In short, I believe that the labor movement is a living organization with two arms. The trades union is one arm; it is the economic arm. The socialist party is its other arm, the political arm. In order to have a well developed organism—in order to be able to advance civilization—both arms must be developed. One arm must not try to do the work of the other, or interfere with the work of the other. Each has its mission to fulfill and ought to fulfill it.

"This is the position of the socialists in the trades union movement."

OTTO FEHRINGER IS BOUND OVER TO DISTRICT COURT

Otto Fehringer was arraigned in Justice C. E. Dunnington's court yesterday on a charge of selling liquor in Colorado Springs without a license, and he was bound over to the district court under $400 bonds. Fehringer is president of the Wagner-Stockbridge company and it is alleged that this company took telephone orders at its Colorado City store and delivered liquor on these orders in Colorado Springs.

Fehringer based his defense on the allegation that his company had not delivered the liquor in the Springs. He said that the liquor was delivered by the Ford Express company, with whom his company has a contract for delivering all liquors in Colorado Springs.

The Rev. C. S. Brooks was an interested spectator at the trial, although he took no part in the prosecution.

WELL-KNOWN WRITER IS VISITING THIS CITY

Til Tilford of Houston, Texas, author of "Butternut Jones," and a magazine short-story writer of note, is making a two-weeks stay in the Pike's Peak region, in company with his wife. They are stopping at 215 Cheyenne avenue.

Mr. Tilford expects to write one or more stories in which this section will figure as the locale, before leaving Colorado Springs. At present, however, he is much occupied in arranging for the appearance on the stage of his "Butternut Jones," which is to be presented in Paterson, N. J., on August 29. The principal character will be portrayed by Harry Leighton, who has adapted the story for stage use, with the collaboration of the author. Mr. Leighton has been associated with Robert Mantell for a number of years, and is an actor of recognized ability.

A second novel is in course of construction by Mr. Tilford, and will be completed soon. The title of the story has not yet been determined, but the scene will be laid in the south. It will be somewhat similar, in character, to his first novel.

DOCTOR-JACK POT COMPANY PROSPERS

A profit for the year of $34,093.23, $30,000 of which was disbursed in dividends, as compared to a $70,000 indebtedness last year, is the remarkable showing made by the Doctor-Jack Pot Mining company. These facts were brought out at the annual stockholders meeting which was held in Cheyenne, Wyo., yesterday.

J. A. Hayes, Irving Bonbright, W. S. Thayer and J. H. Hobbs, all of Colorado Springs; A. M. Stevenson, of Denver, and A. E. Carlton, were elected directors at the meeting to succeed the McAllister and Gandy regime. The latter were given the management last year in order to reorganize the company and liquidate its indebtedness. The company was reorganized and stockholders taxed 3 1-2 cents per share in the new company. The indebtedness was thus paid, and during the past year the 25 sets of lessees working on the property have netted the company $19,967.60. This, together with stock sales and a balance from the reorganization assessment, made a total of $447,666.83. Expenses aggregated $2,578.00, leaving a net profit of $34,673.??

The present board of directors secured control through the Jack Pot company in which they hold a majority of stock. The Jack Pot, as a holding company, owns 1,000,000 shares in the Doctor-Jack Pot, and the purchase of more than 500,000 of Doctor-Jack Pot stock gave them the absolute control of the latter.

Among the many points of vantage from which the Pike Centennial poster may be seen is the summit house on Mt. Washington. Word was received by Secretary Wray, of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday from F. F. Brown of the Mt. DERN'S SUPERIOR SPICES

In these days of adulterated food products the consumer must pay particular attention to his buying, not only in order to get full values, but to protect his health.

For years we have been quietly building up an honest reputation for delivering only honest goods—goods which you know are good simply because they come from Dern's—goods that come to us in the original packages from the growers.

In spices of all kinds one has to be unusually careful. You should take no chances on the flavor and quality of your pickles and preserves you put up being contaminated, but buy here the superior spices of all kinds.

To the Man Who Appropriates $1,000 Annually for Advertising

A great many of Lord & Thomas' most successful clients began their advertising with appropriations of a thousand dollars and even less.

THE Lord & Thomas Agency has grown to be the largest advertising agency in America through the successful development of small advertisers.

Today our volume of business $4,000,000.00 per year—represents the appropriations of nearly 700 clients, so the average appropriation is less than $6,000.00 per year.

Some of our clients who started with small appropriations are now placing over $100,000.00 yearly with us, and their businesses have grown and are continuing to grow in proportion.

The great majority of our clients are now appropriating less than $3,000.00 per year. Our future growth depends upon the development of these $3,000.00-a-year advertisers into the $100,000.00-a-year class.

We want an opportunity to show you how YOU can start advertising with a small appropriation and get into the $100,000.00-a-year class.

The small investor always is in greatest need of protection for his investment. We realize that the $1,000 appropriation of the beginner means more to him than the $100,000.00 appropriation of the older advertiser. We govern ourselves accordingly. We want to tell you how we safeguard your advertising appropriation by basing your investment on the only trustworthy guide in advertising—the Lord & Thomas Record of Results.

Our exclusive Record of Results is the classified, indexed tabulation of actual results from hundreds of small and large advertising campaigns.

This record is interpreted, and the positive knowledge gained thereby is applied to your business by the ablest and highest salaried corps of advertising men in America.

That is why we can and do develop small advertisers, because we eliminate practically all of the waste in advertising due to the use of wrong copy and wrong media.

We want to explain to you, in person, the detailed workings of the Lord & Thomas Record of Results and just how our organization can apply what it teaches to your business.

We want to explain to you why we are particularly anxious for small accounts and how we are peculiarly organized to develop them with the greatest care.

One of our representatives is in your city every few days looking after the interests of some of our present clients. That is why we are advertising in this newspaper to you—NOW.

A letter granting us an interview in your office will not obligate you in any way.

WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

AT THE EMPIRE.

Virden and Dunlap have a record for Colorado Springs that is to say the least, exceptional. This clever team have appeared in this city almost continuously at the Opera house, and changed their act daily for a week at a time and have never yet scored a failure. Miss Dunlap is the most charming little woman imaginable and her versatility is extraordinary. To see her once is to make it a point to see her as often as possible. Mr. Virden is a comedian of a high order, and the two constitute an unusually good team—possibly as good as can be found anywhere in vaudeville. The Empire management is fortunate in securing them; their sketch this week entitled "The Typewriter," is excellent.

The Dayton Sisters are dancers purely and simply, but it has been many moons since such dancing has been seen here. The audiences this week thus far have evinced the utmost enthusiasm for their work and recalled them time and again. A dancing act is by no means a novelty and their success is proof of their excellence.

Dainty Florence Gregson, assisted by Chas. Gregson, style themselves "Elite Musical Artists," and their act is a real exemplar of polite vaudeville. Miss Gregson is really dainty and sweet and talented, in fact everything most desirable and essential to a high class entertainer, and her work, reinforced by that of Charles Gregson, is a work of art.

Keeble Sims, comedy contortionist, is a novelty. His caricatures in chalk are carefully executed in the briefest possible time, and accompanied by a running fire of comment that is witty and happy. Sims is the only thing in his line and well worth seeing.

Mr. E. M. Jeancon, whose rich, mellow baritone, accompanied by the pictures, has delighted Empire patrons for two weeks past, is in splendid voice this week and has a number to which he does the fullest justice.

The moving pictures this week portray "A Kidnaping in France," and, as usual, are all that could be desired.

ARINGTON'S COMEDIANS AT THE OPERA HOUSE

Arington's Comedians produced "My Little Partner" in a very fine manner last evening, to a large audience. This company has established themselves as firm favorites with the patrons of the Opera house. C. D. Hatfield gave another of his splendid character performances and received deserved applause. Mayme Arington also excelled herself. The other parts were well sustained. The children, Helen, Mary and Edy, are undoubtedly three of the cleverest child artists seen in Colorado Springs; their versatility is unlimited. Tomorrow evening, "Leah, the Forsaken," will be seen here for the first time. This is one of the standard dramas of the American stage. There are five acts and eleven scenes, and it will be costumed in the 17th century style. This is the company's feature bill. Saturday afternoon at 2:30, a souvenir matinee of "Cherry Valley" will be given.

the republic. If I were engaged in such occupation, I have no doubt I would be a member of the organization.

But it is absolutely necessary before there can be a contest about a division of profits, that there should be profits to divide. There was but little profit to divide under the last administration of Grover Cleveland. There was much profit to divide under the administration of William McKinley, and there is much profit to divide under the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, and labor, on the average, has been receiving a larger share of the profits in increasing wages every year since the election of McKinley.

The first thing for each citizen to do is to see to it that the economic and financial policies which enable the people to create a profit shall be continued. The conferences and contests touching the division of the profits from time to time will be regulated by the contending parties. Capital must get its fair share of it or it will not continue in business; labor must get its fair share or it will suffer. The very life of the republic depends upon the integrity, the wisdom, the patriotism, and the vigilance of the people who make the republic. Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness are inalienable rights guaranteed by the constitution to each citizen. Whether he be rich or poor, great or small, "The liberty of one man ceases when the liberty of another man begins."

In the contest between the employer and employe from time to time, where differences could not be adjusted, the employer on the one hand has resorted to the lockout, and the employe, on the other hand, to the strike. While both are to be deplored, considering the volume of production and the increase of population, they are becoming less frequent. In my judgment, the time will come when all such differences will be settled amicably between the contending forces; but in all contests employer and employe alike must obey the law which governs all and protects all. The boycott and the blacklist will pass away.

There has been much criticism and much denunciation against alleged "government by injunction," and violent attacks have been made upon the judiciary of the United States. During the late session of congress labor leaders differed as to the legislation that was desired. Mr. Gompers, professing to speak for the American Federation of Labor, denounced the so-called Fuller bill, pending before the house committee on the judiciary and advocated by Mr. H. B. Fuller, the representative of the railway labor unions, in the most bitter terms, as being opposed to human liberty and the rights of labor. Mr. Gompers, with Mr. Spelling, his attorney, advocated a bill introduced by request by Representative Pearre, and pending before the same committee, which in substance prohibited United States courts from issuing injunctions in any case between employer and employe unless necessary to prevent irreparable injury to property or to a property right of the party making the application, for which injury there is no adequate remedy at law, and in the next sentence provided, "And for the purposes of this act no right to carry on business of any particular kind or at any particular place, or at all, shall be construed, held, considered or treated as property or as constituting a property right." Mr. Spelling, speaking for Mr. Gompers and himself, said that such legislation ought to be enacted. It being near the end of the session, further consideration of the proposed legislation by the house judiciary committee was postponed until the next session of congress.

Speaking for myself, I am not in favor of this legislation demanded by Mr. Gompers. The power of the courts to issue writs of injunction to prevent irreparable injury to property or to a property right for which there is no adequate remedy at law, is older than the constitution, and as well established as any other principle of law or equity. The inalienable right of each citizen, be he weak or strong, is to come and go to and from his property without molestation and to carry on business thereon, and, in the exercise of such right, he is entitled to call upon the government for protection through the courts.

Mr. Gompers claims that in contests growing out of strikes or lockouts he is opposed to violence on the part of anyone connected with the controversy. I will not question the good faith of the claim, but I do say that if the legislation he demands were enacted, destruction of property by irresponsible persons in such controversies would increase. Again, if such legislation were enacted, under its cover vicious and irresponsible people belonging to the criminal class not engaged in labor or seeking to labor, would avail themselves of the opportunity as they have in many instances, in the name of contesting labor, of destroying property, and the owner thereof would be without remedy. The legislation that Mr. Gompers demands would turn loose in times of trouble the criminally disposed. In charity for him, I do not believe that he realizes the consequences that would result from that which he advocates, and, in justice to all the citizenship of the republic, in justice to every man who lives in the sweat of his face by honest endeavor, I am now, and will be at all times, opposed to this legislation which he demands.

For thirty years I have represented a district where nearly all the constituency have lived, and are living, by their labor. They and those like unto them stand for law and order, for protection of property and the inalienable rights of every citizen. Those who labor have trod, and are treading, no path that I have not trod, and that my descendants will not tread. The organized labor that Mr. Gompers claims to represent is composed of people who have the right to organize. They are of all churches and of no church; they are skilled and unskilled; they belong to all the different parties; they are as intelligent and as patriotic as any other equal number of citizens of the republic. In the transaction of the business of their organization I have no doubt they will co-operate with those who from time to time they place in authority, but, in their party affiliations, in choosing the policies of the republic, I am ready to take my chances with them; and this, too, without regard to the demands of Mr. Gompers when he seeks to control their action at the ballot box.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Aug. 16.—The American Eagles property of the Stratton estate, the highest and deepest mine in the camp, will not be operated under lease by the Western Investment company, which prospected the property thoroughly during the last week. The leasing company concluded after mature deliberation that the values in sight in the mine and the prospects there do not warrant the expenditure of the $50 daily necessary to keep the surface plant in operation, aside from other expenses.

BEGIN EXCAVATING FOR BIG NEW MILL

BLUE FLAG COMPANY TO ERECT 150-TON CYANIDE PLANT TO TREAT LARGE BODIES OF LOW GRADE ORE.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Aug. 16.—Excavation work was begun this morning on the Blue Flag property on Raven hill for the erection of a 150-ton cyanide mill. The new plant will cost about $25,000 and will handle the large bodies of low grade ore already opened in the property.

D. O. [illegible], who recently took a lease on the W. P. H. from the 245-foot level to the surface has opened a new vein which is three feet wide and gives assays running from $25 to $100 in gold to the ton. A shipment is being prepared.

J. P. Gibbin, leasing at a depth of 80 feet on the Pueblo claim on Bull hill, today received his settlement sheet from 22 tons of ore which gave values of $49.90. The ore was broken down four feet wide. Machine drills are to be installed and the output will be doubled.

INCREASE SPECIE PAYMENT OUTPUT

REJUVENATED MINE NOW IS RETURNING A HANDSOME MONTHLY PROFIT TO ITS OPERATORS.

IDAHO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 16.—The Specie Payment mine is steadily increasing its monthly output and approaching the standard of the bigger mines of the district.

The property is returning a neat sum each month to the owners and is another example of a rejuvenated mine—an abandoned property restored to better conditions than ever prevailed in the hey-day of its prosperity. The Two Brothers tunnel was driven over a half mile to cut the vein below the lowest of the old workings. It provided gravity transportation and cut off nearly two miles of hard road from the wagon hauls of supplies and product. In the tunnel level an excellent body of ore was found from which a large production is now coming and the new developments have induced operations by leasers in which all are making good pay and several are winning small fortunes. There is a long period of prosperity before the mine as a resultant of a comprehensive development of depth of the vein which could not be successfully reached from the surface.

STATE INVESTMENT CO. PROSPECTS GOOD

CRIPPLE CREEK, Aug. 16.—The Colorado Investment company, operating on the Aileen property, adjoining the Mary McKinney Consolidated on Gussie hill, has a force of 50 men employed and the force will be increased this week to 200 men. The shaft has been completed to the 700-foot point, laterals will be driven and in less than a fortnight this company will be shipping out two cars of ore a day that will give returns of from three to five ounces in gold to the ton.

In less than a week's time after shipments are started the $7,000 paid for the lease and the heavy development expense will be paid for after royalties have been paid. The Aileen is a known edged to be one of the best properties in the camp and is located in the most fashionable of mining neighborhoods. Gold ore has been shipped from this claim before.

THREE VEINS CUT IN COPPER KING

SILVERTON PROPERTY ORE AVERAGES $50 A TON IN GOLD, COPPER AND NATIVE SILVER. SOME HIGH GRADE.

SILVERTON, Colo., Aug. 16.—The Copper King group, on Boulder mountain, near the properties of the Boston & Silverton Mining and Reduction company, give promise of becoming among the best producers of the district. The property embraces the Copper King, [illegible] and a number of other claims and covers several valuable veins, opened in many places. [illegible]

A mine [illegible] sunk on the Copper King claim has cut three veins of large dimensions, running in gold, copper and native silver and averaging $50 a ton. Four carloads were recently shipped, returning $126 a ton. The pay streaks are well defined and average from two to three feet in width.

The veins are believed to be the southern extension of either the Uncle Sam or the rich vein recently opened in the Yukon tunnel. The owners are planning to run a tunnel, which will start a short distance from Cement creek and half a mile below the portal of the Yukon tunnel.

The Highland Mary is sending a carload of high-grade ore to the smelter every week. The ore body has been opened in three levels for a distance of 400 feet and the shipments are being made only from the ore encountered in running the levels, no stoping having been done as yet.

BOULDER MILLS ARE NEARLY COMPLETED

BOULDER, Colo., Aug. 16.—The Wano mill at Jamestown is at a stage where only the finishing touches are necessary to set it going. The Langridge 500-ton mill on the South Boulder, designed to handle the low grade ores from an immense dyke that protrudes nearly 500 feet above the surface, is under rapid progress. The buildings are up and the machinery is arriving. This will be the largest enterprise of its kind in Boulder county. The method will be coarse crushing and subsequent treating of the pulp in cyanide solution. The ore, being oxidized, will not require roasting. It is estimated that the mineral from this dyke can be broken, delivered to the mill and treated at a cost very close to $1 per ton.

FIND $40 ORE ON BALD MOUNTAIN

BADGER SHAFT IS ALMOST FREE FROM WATER AND WORK PROBABLY WILL BEGIN SOON.

LEADVILLE, Aug. 16.—Walker, Dwyer & Hamiewald, operating on a claim adjoining the Sunday, on Ball mountain, have opened a body of ore that runs $40 per ton.

The ore recently opened in the Tiger continues with the upraise that is being sent up to connect the two tunnels. When the connections are made the mine will be well ventilated and the ore body will be thoroughly explored.

Water in the Badger shaft, Adelaide Park, being operated by the Franklin Mining company, is almost entirely eliminated and work underground will be started soon. The shaft is a little over 900 feet deep and from the bottom drifting will be started to catch the ore shoots from South Iron hill. Should the ore body be located in this territory the company will resume work on the Lady Alice shaft.

At the 300-foot level of the Flagstaff lessees are drifting to the ore body which they expect to cut some time this week. From the Humboldt fifteen tons daily of good sulphide ore is being shipped and the property looks well.

WILL FURNISH A BIG TONNAGE

THE MINT LEASE MOST IMPORTANT OF RECENT STRIKES AT EMPIRE. DAILY SHIPMENTS.

EMPIRE, Colo., Aug. 16.—The most important of recent strikes at Empire and one that bids fair to furnish an immense tonnage of fine grade smelting ore for immediate shipment, has just been made in the 150-foot stope of the Mint mine on Covode mountain.

Since passing into control of the Gilpin-American company systematic prospecting has resulted in opening out ore bodies from which daily shipments are going forward to the Clear Creek mill. Heretofore the output has been of fine grade milling character, but the new discovery is of solid material, carrying about three ounces gold in a streak that has widened to twelve inches and overlies the entire extent of the open ground.

A vertical distance to the surface of 300 feet will guarantee ample space for ore extraction from a deposit whose apex had been uncovered in upper drainage.

The Mint has a past record of good production, but no continuous ore body of high grade, such as the new find promises to develop, had ever been uncovered.

A [illegible] test of the mill run has demonstrated the presence of a considerable percentage of free gold and the showing by amalgamation has been highly satisfactory.

MINES EXPLORATION COMPANY FORMED

The Mines Exploration company filed articles of incorporation of which were placed with the county clerk yesterday. The capitalization is $500,000, although the articles allow the extension of this amount. The directors are C. M. MacNeill, general manager of the United States Reduction and Refining company; Spencer Penrose, secretary and treasurer of the same organization; C. C. Hamlin of the Granite mine; K. R. Babbitt and D. C. Jackling. Mr. Jackling is general manager of the Utah Copper company, while Mr. Babbitt is closely associated with the interests of the reduction company.

Colorado Springs is named as the place of business. According to a director, the company was organized to purchase mining properties. The articles of incorporation provide that subsidiary companies may be organized by the Mines Exploration company.

The company's organization at this time has no significance in regard to the purchase of Cripple Creek property by officials of the United States Reduction and Refining company, despite rumors in the past, according to the directors. On the contrary, the initial investments will probably not be made in the Cripple Creek district.

DRAINAGE TUNNEL CO. INCORPORATED

Articles of incorporation were filed with the county clerk yesterday, of the Cripple Creek Drainage and Tunnel company, organized to drive the intermediate, or Gatch park tunnel through the Cripple Creek district for drainage purposes. The capitalization of the company is placed at $1,000,000, divided into as many shares of a par value of $1 each. The incorporators are Frank G. Peck, of the Portland; Sherwood Aldrich, of the Elkton, and W. J. Chinn, attorney for the tunnel company. These will comprise the directorate for the first year, together with F. F. Castello, representing the Mary McKinney; S. S. Bernard, El Paso; F. J. Campbell, Vindicator; C. C. Hamlin, Granite, and J. T. Milliken, Golden Cycle.

It will be remembered that the intermediate tunnel, the final choice of the mine owners, will cut the camp at a distance of 740 feet below the present El Paso, or Cripple Creek tunnel. The cost will approximate $700,000 and the time of construction will approximate three years. The funds will be raised through voluntary subscription to the stock of the tunnel company.

VALUES RUN FROM $50 TO $100 A TON

CRIPPLE CREEK, Aug. 16.—Roberts and associates, operating a sublease from M. J. Burgdorf on the Modoc have opened up between five and six feet of ore between the 500 and 700-foot levels, which is giving values in carload lots of from $50 to $60 in gold to the ton, with an occasional carload running between $80 and $100.

These lessees followed on a streak which varied from eight to twelve inches for a considerable distance when of a sudden and near the Last Dollar line the ore opened out to the above named dimensions and the values increased. Beginning shortly these lessees will increase the tonnage to four or five cars per week. There is plenty of good stoping ground and despite the fact that they are subleasing, which makes royalties high, they will be able to clean up a good many thousands of dollars.

REALIZING MAKES CLOSE IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Wall Street [illegible] of feverish impatience in the expectation of seeing the solution [illegible] of the excited speculation in Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. The [illegible] in those stocks. The day passed without a solution of the riddle. The sustained strength was attributed to a conviction that a decision on the dividends to be paid had been arrived at, although the announcement was withheld. The market fell into intense dullness during the midday period.

The average rate for call loans during the day was higher than yesterday in spite of some substantial replenishment of banking supplies.

The strength in Pennsylvania made an active market for the convertible bonds of which large holdings were left in the hands of the syndicate when it was dissolved. The reaction in prices which followed the announcement that no dividend action would be reported from the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific meetings was resisted. The view was apparently taken that the stocks were in a stronger position with the mystery [illegible] than if formal announcement of dividend action had been made. The action of the St. Paul directors in offering the $25,000,000 of treasury stock to stockholders at par, thus confirming a long-standing expectation, encouraged confidence in the dividend hopes on the Pacifics. There was heavy realizing just at the last in Southern Pacific and the closing was in consequence unsettled and irregular.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,350,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on call.

GIRL TREATED IN BRUTAL MANNER

MADE LIGHT REMARK ABOUT GAYETY OF TROOPS AND WAS BRUTALLY LASHED BY GUARDS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 16.—Intense popular indignation has been created here by the report [illegible] of Mlle. Smirnoff, a refined young woman, at the hands of the Cossack [illegible] guards. While a [illegible] of these guardsmen was passing along the Nevski prospect yesterday Mlle. Smirnoff, who was accompanied by [illegible], remarked, "They [illegible] as if they had captured Port Arthur."

The guardsmen hearing the remark, repeated it, and quite a crowd collected and [illegible] in the Nevski. The commander of the [illegible] who was [illegible] with drawn whips. The troopers [illegible] crowd, laying about [illegible] Mlle. Smirnoff and her companion who in the meantime had passed down a side street were pursued. They tried to escape into a doorway but were caught. Under the direction of an officer they were forced to enter a cab and were driven to the guards' barracks where they were taken before Colonel [illegible]. The latter was disposed to turn Mlle. Smirnoff over to the [illegible] but other officers intervened and the girl finally was taken to the courtyard, where troopers, in the presence of two officers, administered to her 27 lashes with their whips. The girl's clothing was cut off by knives by the wire thongs of the whips and her flesh was horribly lacerated.

The papers are demanding the trial both of the officers and men who took part in the affair.

No action by the military authorities has yet been announced.

The Twentieth Century, which printed another story of the case today, has been confiscated.

BURGLAR DINES, DRINKS, DOZES, SNORES, CAUGHT

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 16.—A snore served as a burglar alarm and saved Ambrose Perkins' home from robbery this morning. The snore was emitted by the burglar himself, who says he is James Webber.

Perkins was sleeping when he was aroused by a stentorian "G-r-r-r-r Kampf." He nudged his wife impatiently but the explosions continued. Perkins stood it for a time and then started to investigate. He found a large man sleeping on the floor.

"Guess I got in the wrong house," was the intruder's reply to Perkins' awakening kick.

"Guess you did," returned Perkins. Then he called a policeman, who took Webber to the lock-up.

Webber had gained entrance by removing a window screen. He went to the icebox and helped himself liberally to beverages. This, with a hearty luncheon, put him to sleep before he had completed his work.

HANGS SON BY THUMBS AND WIRES HIS TONGUE

TRENTON, Aug. 16.—Albin Hasbrook was arrested tonight on complaint of several of his neighbors for extreme cruelty toward his wife and son. He is charged with hanging his ten-year-old boy by the thumbs for hours and depriving him of his meals. When the boy threatened to tell the police, the father tied his tongue with a piece of wire, tightening it with a stick.

The boy has run away from home several times. He had just returned today and the father started in again, when the neighbors had him arrested.

VALUE OF MILLINERY FRILLS.

From the New York Times.

Colonel Millard Hunsicker, the European representative of the United States Steel corporation who handed in his resignation last week, recalls some of his early successes as a salesman of American products in Asia to the same military connection to which he owes his title. According to the colonel's story, when he first entered the field in the Orient he found the European commercial representatives strongly intrenched behind the prestige of their respective nations' military and naval contingents. It was before the days of our own imperialism and the colonel was in despair of properly impressing his prospective customers with the greatness of things American until he conceived the happy idea of being his own martial display. He got out his military togs and took to wearing on every possible occasion all the gold lace the fullest full dress of a colonel would permit. The effect was magical, as he tells the story, and thereafter his rivals were never in the race.

HIS STEAMER CHAIRS.

From the New York Press.

"I have the woodwork of seventeen steamer chairs in my garret," grumbled the man who has crossed the ocean seventeen times. "Just as good as new. Each chair cost me $1.50. The canvas, duck or webbing that formed the seat wore out and I never was able to replace it. I tried forty stores for similar material, and gave up the job. Now whenever I want a chair I buy a new one complete, because looking for colored or striped, or checked duck to form a seat I had [illegible] experience. Plenty of white duck is to be found, but no subdued stripes or colors. All you want is a strip 17 or 18 inches wide and 2 1-2 yards long. It ought to cost about 25 cents a yard.

WHEAT DROPS TO UNDER 70 CENTS

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—For the first time in over three years wheat for the [illegible] sold under 70 cents, that price being shaded ⅛c on a few trades in the September option made within the first hour of the session. The market was influenced by lower cables and continued excellent weather for harvesting in Minnesota and the Dakotas. After the first display of weakness the market held fairly steady throughout the day. The close was steady. September opened a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 70c to ⅛c, sold between 69⅞c and 70⅛@¼c and closed at 70⅛c.

Perfect weather for the growing crop caused a weak tone in the corn market during the greater part of the day. Cash houses and pit traders sold freely. The close was fairly steady. September opened ⅛@¼c lower at 48⅛@⅜c, sold off to 48c and closed at 48@⅛c.

Oats were quiet and weak. September opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 30⅞c to 31c, sold off to 30½c and closed at 30½c.

Provisions were firm. September pork closed 2½c higher at $17.27½. Lard was up 2½c at $8.70. Ribs were 2½c higher at $8.95.

SHARP BUT NOT CLEVER.

A London scientist says that life in a metropolis makes young children sharp, but not clever; that it often destroys their chance of ever being clever, for it hastens the development of the brain unnaturally; it makes them superficial, alert, but not observant; excitable, but without one spark of enthusiasm; they are apt to grow blase, fickle, discontented; they see more things than the country-bred child, but not such interesting things; they do not properly see anything, for they have neither the time nor capacity to get at the root of all the bewildering objects that crowd themselves into their little lives.

MRS. BELMONT'S GENEROSITY.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont has decided to build a chapel in Hempstead, L. I., near which her country home is located. Father Farrell had been trying to raise the money, but was meeting with poor success. One of his parishioners, a servant in the Belmont place, offered him all her savings, but the priest refused [illegible] gift, knowing the girl could not afford it. The servant, much worried over the matter, told Mrs. Belmont about it. The latter is not a Catholic, but she has offered to furnish the cost of a new chapel.

POLICEMAN AT 92.

R. F. Peters, who soon will be 92 years old, is a park policeman in Sioux City, Ia. Recently he visited two daughters in Philadelphia, stopping in Chester county, Pa., where he was born. According to this veteran officer, "good habits, clear conscience and hard work" are the three prerequisites to long life.

"LOVE OF IDLENESS."

English Country Rector's Wife and Work-Shunning Tramps.

From the Chicago News.

The hard-working wife of a poor country rector whose income has been decreasing every year for the past 20 years, forwards us the following account of her experience of the country tramp. She writes:

"We keep only one maid servant, who has been with us for seven years; we cannot afford to keep a man although we have a large garden, and are obliged to keep a pony, as we are eight miles from a town.

"Last week we had our field of hay cut, and as there was no available man to come and help make and carry the hay, I went down the road to see if I could get a tramp or an 'unemployed' to come. I saw six or eight of them between here and the village, which is a quarter of a mile away. Some were lying down on the roadside, and others -all able-bodied men—were walking along.

"I asked them if they wanted work, and they replied that they did. I said, 'Will you come and help us make the hay? You will have good food and plenty to drink, and a good place to sleep in, and kindness shown to you.'

"There were three in a row, and one, an especially strong looking young man of about 26, stood still for a minute, and said, 'Well, I don't think I shall do it,' and passed along. I asked others the next day, and not one was willing to work.

"Will you please inform me how it is that my husband and self, now in our sixty-eighth year, should be compelled by law to work hard to help support such vagabonds? These men were far better able to work than we are. I am sometimes working in the garden myself at 5 in these fine summer mornings.

"The Bible says, 'The idle soul shall suffer hunger,' but according to recent accounts they enjoy luxuries. A little time ago a neighboring farmer badly needed a man to help with his hay. He asked a tramp, who answered, 'Well, I haven't done a day's work for twenty years, and I don't think I shall begin now.' He was a middle-aged man."

Foolish

You are foolish to strain your eyes to read ordinary type when a pair of our perfectly fitted "made to order" glasses will make all print as plain as day. You not only cause yourself much discomfort, but you do your eyes an injury and put yourself at a disadvantage in these days of keen competition. The eyes do not always give evidence of their extra effort. Headaches, nervousness and some stomach troubles indicate eye strain. Let us put you and your eyes right—it costs nothing to find out.

Another Great Remnant Sale

Thousands of remnants of every description go on sale for today and Saturday at half price.

The ever-increasing popularity of our half-price remnant sales is conclusive evidence of the exceptional advantages offered by this house. This sale will be greater than any that has passed. It is a time when every department is converting all short lengths into remnants, and it is because of this great cleaning up of all sections that such a mass of short lengths have accumulated.

There are remnants of ginghams, calicoes, cotton suitings, dimities, organdies, dress goods, silks, suitings, linings, muslins, sheetings, drapery goods of every description, curtain Swisses, flannels, etc., etc.

It was not long ago that we conducted a half-price remnant sale, cleaning up all the short ends. These have accumulated since then and include only seasonable and desirable merchandise. They were marked originally at remnant prices which is way below their value. Today and Saturday the price will be one-half what they are marked. The sale begins promptly at 8 o'clock and there's enough for all.
